COMMENT ON THE PROPOSED RENAMING OF EENDRAG PARK TO CLIVE CUPIDO MEMORIAL PARK

The City of Cape Town has received a proposal to rename Eendrag Park in Bellville South to Clive Cupido Memorial Park.

Clive Cupido was a young resident of Bellville South who passed away on 29 August 1985 during the apartheid era. His death, which was reportedly linked to the actions of apartheid security police, had a profound and lasting impact on the local community. For many residents, his passing remains a painful reminder of the broader injustices experienced during that period in South Africa's history.

The proposal to rename the park seeks to honour his memory and acknowledge the lived experiences of the Bellville South community during apartheid. Proponents believe that renaming the park would serve as a symbolic act of remembrance, recognising both the hardships endured and the resilience demonstrated by the community.
